1.2 HISTORY AND GEOGRAPHY –

Bhind, the Northernmost District of Madhya Pradesh and in the North East of Gwalior is situated at 26°34'50" latitude and 78°48'05" longitude. The district lies in the valleys of Chambal and the Sind and amidst two rivers the Kunwari and the Pahuj. The district spans from 25°54'5" North to 26°47'50" North and from 78°12'45" East to 79°8'30" East. The shape of the district is semi circular, bulging towards the north east. The greatest length of Bhind district measures about 105 kms from south east to north west. The District is bounded by Agra and Etawa districts of Uttar Pradesh in the north and Gwalior and Datia districts in the south. The eastern boundary is closed by the districts of Etawah Auraiya and Jalaun of Uttar Pradesh in the east, where as the western and north western boundaries are common with Morena district. The north western boundary is marked by the Asan and the Kunwari rivers, the northern and eastern boundaries being traversed by the Chambal and the Pahuj. The entire District lies in the Chambal valley. It forms the south western part of Ganga Valley. The Hills are only a few, small and isolated, mostly in the south west. It is only in the Bhind Tehsil that the rivers flow towards east. The topology of Bhind is the topography of the valley plains. The plains at present are closely cultivated fields devoid of trees, stubbed with shrubby growth only along the moist hollows, and thickly populated. The only divisions of topography are offered by the network of rivers with deep channels and steep bank. The widest plane of the district lies in the western part around Gohad, Mehgaon and Mau. The ravine lands extend along both sides of the rivers and their tributaries. These ravines were the ideal shelters and bypass routes of dacoits. The ravine areas are mostly unsuitable for cultivation and settlements though by reclamation it can be controlled. The district is crossed by a number of rivers and streams. The Chambal and the Sind are the main rivers of the district. The Chambal forms the northern boundary. As the 2 rivers are the tributaries of the Yamuna, they form parts of the Ganga drainage system. Apart from these, the other important rivers of the district are the Kunwari, the Pahuj, the Asan and the Vaisali. The total area of the district is 4,459 km².

The soil of Bhind is very fertile and is well drained by the Chambal, Kali Sind, Kunwari or Kwari, Pahuj and Baisali rivers and by an extensive canal system. Formerly there were four tehsils, Bhind, Mehgaon, Gohad and Lahar, but at present there are eight tehsils: Bhind, Ater, Mehgaon, Gormi Gohad, Lahar, Mihona, and Raun. The Bhind is a district of the Chambal Division.

It is well known fact that the region has been subjected to depredations of dacoits, robbers or thugs since ages. The majestic Chambal, surrounded yawning chasms and gaping beehads (ravines) provide an ideal setting to this murky banditry in a big way. Even during Mughal times the powerful administration failed to curb these menace. As many as 216 dacoits were shot dead and 697 arrested in Bhind district alone from 1959 to 1963.

Climate of District –

The Climate of Bhind is characterized by general dryness, except during the south-west monsoon season. The year may be divided into 4 seasons. The winter season is from December to February is followed by the summer season from March to about middle of June . The period from Middle of June to about the end of September is the south-west monsoon season. October and November constitute the post-monsoon or retreating monsoon season. Average rainfall of district Bhind is 668 mm but in this year rainfall gone upto 896 mm till middle of the Oct. 2018.

Valley

The entire district lies in the Chambal valley. It forms the south western part of Ganga Valley. The hills are only a few, small and isolated, mostly in the south west.

1.4 GENERAL LAW & ORDER

District Bhind is in the north of Madhya Pradesh falling on M.P. and U.P. border. The district being adjacent to the bordering districts of U.P. like Agra, Etawah, Jalon & Jhansi witnessed many incidents of poll related violence in the past. There is generally a situation of tension and vulnerability due to personal enmity or tussle in various villages of the district. Bhind district has the deep ravines of Chambal, Kuari and Sindh rivers which are generally used as hideouts by outlaws. The forest in most areas of the district make our movement very difficult. The people of the district are divided on caste lines and this give rise to violence and tension. During the poll period a sudden increase in violence is often seen. Apart from it, Bhind is a large district having a large area. At many places, 'Thanas' are very far from one another. Many polling stations are located in zigzag and ravine-affected areas of the rivers in the district where the movement of polling staff and security forces is not so easy. Finally, there are more than 22 thousand arms licenses in the district and to get them deposited is also a complicated task.

ASSEMBLY CONSTITUENCY SPECIFIC GENERAL LAW AND ORDER

ATER (09) : A high number of vulnerable hamlets and intimidators identify in assembly constituency. Some polling stations of Ater Assembly Constituency are located in the ravines of Chambal and Kuari rivers where security forces cannot be easily sent. 21 incidents of poll related violence took place in the assembly election of the year-2008. This assembly constituency being adjacent to Agra and Etawah districts of U.P. is really very critical and vulnerable. Hence, there is all probability of poll related violence here. In many villages of the constituency people are divided into groups on caste lines and also due to personal enmity. All these things render the constituency critical and vulnerable. Many polling stations are 60-70 km. far from the district headquarters. Previous Mandi and Panchayat elections have also divided people into various groups in the constituency. In 2003 an incident of murder had taken place during the assembly election. Looking to the above, it is quite evident that the whole assembly constituency is very sensitive and vulnerable. No incidents of election related violence took place in Loksabha Election 2009, 2014 and Assembly Election 2018.

BHIND (10) : A high number of vulnerable hamlets and intimidators identify in assembly constituency. During assembly election-2008, 6 incidents of poll related violence were reported. A large area of this assembly constituency is under vulnerability mapping. This constituency is dominated by Thakurs and Brahammans. There are tension and tussle among the people in the constituency. Hence, there is likelihood of poll related violence during upcoming assembly election. There are a large number of arms licenses in the constituency and it is very difficult to get them deposited in concerned thanas. No incidents of election related violence took place in Lok Sabha Election 2009, 2014 and Assembly Election 2018.

LAHAR (11) : A high number of vulnerable hamlets and intimidators identify in assembly constituency. The border of this constituency touches the borders of Jalon and Jhansi districts of U.P. These districts of U.P. are very sensitive from the viewpoint of crimes and this thing also affects the Lahar Assembly Constituency and gives rise to a law and order problem. 18 incidents of poll related violence had taken place in the constituency during the assembly election of 2008. Many polling stations have been identified and marked as vulnerable. People are divided on caste lines. This constituency is dominated by Thakurs and Brahmans. Other castes are also divided. Illegal excavation of sand and mines and movement of unsocial elements in the constituency have given rise to vulnerability in the constituency. Some polling stations are located in the deep ravines of the rivers and some are about 100 km. far from the district headquarters. This makes law and order difficult. There are a large number of arms licenses in the constituency and to get them deposited in 'Thanas' is again a very difficult and challenging task. There were two repolls during Assembly Election 2013 due to violence at two PS resulting in breaking of EVMs. No incidents of election related violence took place in Lok Sabha Election 2009, 2014 and Assembly Election 2018.

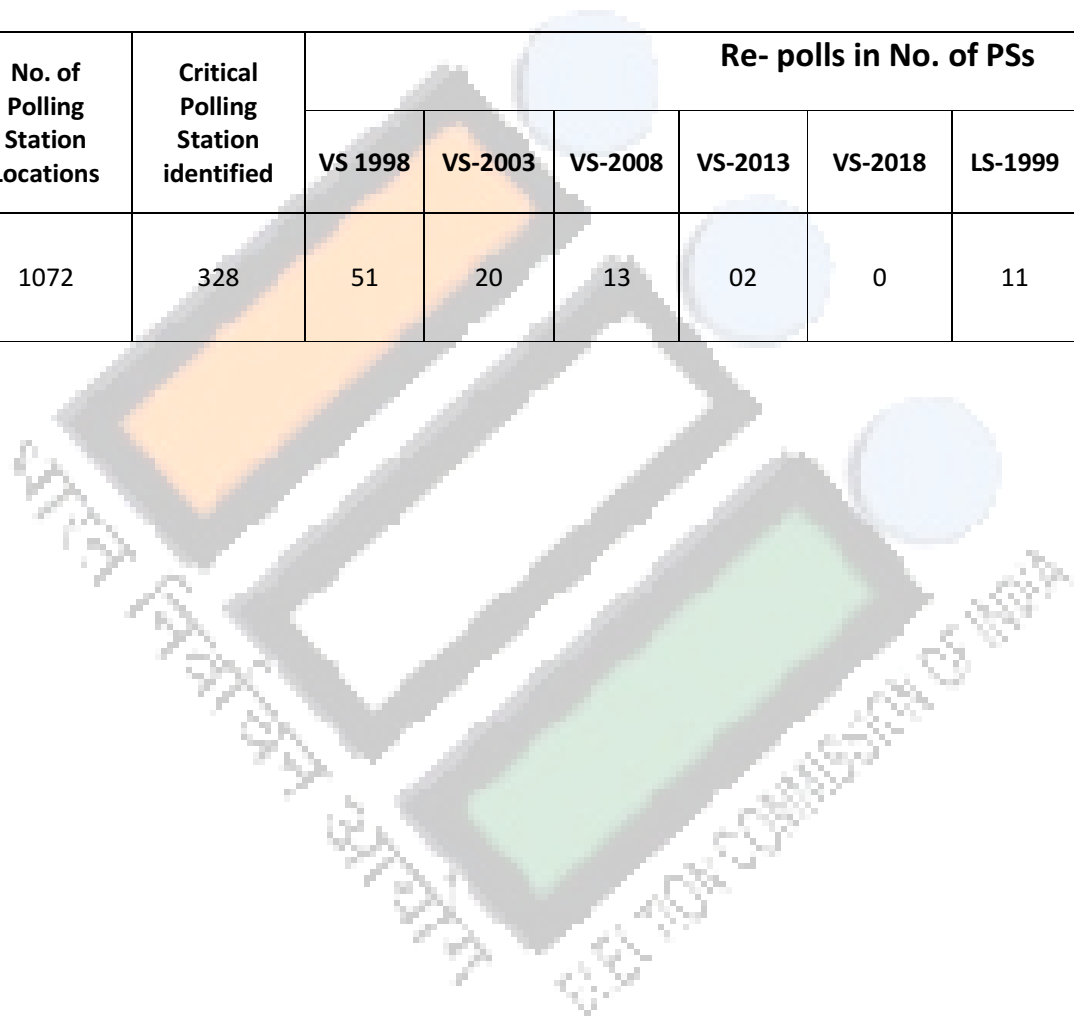

MEHGAON (12) : A high number of vulnerable hamlets and intimidators identify in assembly constituency. Many polling stations are located along the banks of Sindh and Besali rivers. There is a large number of people of Narvaria caste in the constituency. Other people are also divided on caste basis and it gives rise to poll violence in the constituency. In this constituency too, there are a large number of arms licenses and to get them deposited in 'Thanas' is again a difficult task. No incidents of election related violence took place in Lok Sabha Election 2009, 2014 and Assembly Election 2018.

GOHAD (SC) (13) : A high number of vulnerable hamlets and intimidators identify in assembly constituency. 13 Gohad Assembly Constituency is reserved for SC. During the Assembly election of 2008, two cases of poll related violence were reported. One incident was related to the murder of Shri Makhanlal Jatav who won the assembly election of 2008. He was murdered in 2009 due to personal enmity. A number of polling stations are located along the bank of Besali river. There also exists the situation of tension due to the division of people on caste basis and personal enmity. Most of the polling stations are very far from the district headquarters. There are a lot of arms licenses in the constituency. From the above, it is clear that this constituency is very important from the point of view of Law and Order. No incidents of election related violence took place in Lok Sabha Election 2009, 2014 and Assembly Election 2018.

Weapon deposition

Order are issued for depositing weapons. At present 4500 arms deposited out of 22752 in different police stations of district and 3 licenses have been cancelled.

Concerns of Bhind District

(i) Urban/Rural Apathy

A large section of the voters in Bhind district being from rural population, previous experience suggests that compared to urban areas, the voters in rural areas show a lesser interest in voting. Therefore, we have to make special efforts through SVEEP to take care of this problem.

(ii) Confidence-Building Measures

In several areas of Bhind city, we may require to undertake confidence- building measures by deployment of Para-military forces so as to create a feeling of security so that voter turn-out is not adversely affected.

(iii) Tackling Money Power

Considering the socio-economic condition of Bhind, tackling with money power is also going to be a priority for district administration. Regarding this, an efficient expenditure monitoring mechanism will be our priority.

(iv) Caste Conflicts

Though not as serious as the above three, but the possibility of caste conflicts in some of the rural areas cannot be ruled out. The district administration plans to keep a watchful eye on such possibilities and take necessary preventive measures to pre-empt the same.
